From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated April 17.

Madrid, March 26.

THE Spaniſh Generals who are to ſerve under the Duke of Orleans, are upon their Departure for the Frontiers of Catalonia. Seven Battalions, two Regiments of Horſe, and one of Dragoons, of the Troops that are in the Kingdom of Valentia, are to march towards Eſtramadura to reinforce the Army under the Marquis de Bay. The Duke of Oſſuna will be going in two Days to his Government of Andalouſia, and the Italian Regiment of Molfetta is marching thither to reinforce the Troops that are deſign'd to defend the Coaſts of that Country. Lieutenant General Mahoni, who is to command the Forces that are going for Sicily, haſtens all he can the march of thoſe Troops to Carthagena, where they are to embark, and where the Ships that are to Convoy them are expected from Toulon. The Galleys of Spain are ſail'd from Carthagena, to carry a Succour of Men, Proviſions and Ammunition into the Fortreſs of Mazalquivir, from whence we have receiv'd the ill News, that the Garriſon, which conſiſted of 700 Men of Veteran Troops, was reduc'd to 300, who, with above 3000 Perſons of the Families that retir'd thither after the Loſs of Oran, had ſubſiſted only on a ſmall Allowance of Bread, and ſome ſtinking Water, ever ſince the laſt Convoy of Proviſions deſign'd for them, had been oblig'd to put back into the Port of Carthagena; and that the Infidels had advanc'd their Works to the very Foot of the Wall. The Conqueſts the Algerines have made, have rouz'd the King of Morocco, who is making great Preparations to attack with more Vigour the Fortreſs of Ceuta, from whence the Governour has ſent an Officer to Court, to demand Succours that may be ſufficient to enable him to oppoſe the Forces of the Enemy. Upon this Advice Orders are given to ſend thither a reinforcement of three Regiments of Foot, and 50 Horſe, together with 10000 loaded Granadoes, a large Quantity of Powder, and whatever elſe is neceſſary for the defence of that Place. According to our laſt Letters from Andalouſia, the Ships that tranſported the Succours of German Troops from Genoa to Barcelona, are ſtill detain'd at Gibraltar.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 17.

Madrid, March 27. They write from Rouſſillon, that moſt of the Troops were arriv'd there, and that they waited only for the Duke de Noailles, to form the Army that is to Act in the Lampourdan. The Marquis de Bay intends to open the Campaign the beginning of next Month: And 'tis aſſur'd that the Duke of Orleans has fixt Monday next for his Departure for Lerida; ſoon after which he will take the Field. The delay of the Gallions will hinder the King from putting himſelf at the Head of his Army. We made Account that the Mony which they were to bring would enable his Majeſty to pay the many Forces he keeps on Foot: But now in all appearance we muſt have Supplies from France, to make good the Deficiency of the Funds we ſo much rely'd upon. We have Advice that a Convoy of Troops, Arms and Ammunition arriv'd at Meſſina from Toulon: M. Mahoni is likewiſe to go thither with ſome Spaniſh Troops; all which we hope will not only put the Kingdom of Sicily in a Condition to defend it ſelf in caſe of Attack, but even to make ſome Attempt upon that of Naples.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated April 17.

Madrid, March 27. The Duke of Orleans has put off his Departure for the Frontiers of Catalonia till the 2d of next Month: Mean while he continues to have frequent Conferences with the Commiſſaries of the Stores and Surveyors of the Army. There is ſcarce any likelihood that the King will go this Year into the Field. Tho' the Town of Yecla has been ſeveral times Pillag'd by the Enemy they have nevertheleſs given the King a Free Gift of 25000 Crowns. We hear from Rouſſillon that moſt of the Troops are arriv'd there, and that they expect only the Duke of Noailles to form the Army that is to enter into Catalonia. They write from Badajox that the Marquis de Bay, who commands in Eſtramadura, deſigns to take the Field the 6th of next Month againſt the Portugueſe, with a ſtrong Body of Men; and that having detach'd ſome Horſe towards Ronches the 22d of this Month, they had fallen upon two Troops of Portugueze Horſe and ſome of their Infantry: That they had kill'd 22 Men upon the Spot, taken 9 Priſoners, and brought off ſome Horſes with them. They write from Carthagena that the Fortreſs of Mazalquivir in Barbary was reduc'd to the laſt Extremity, ſo that they every Day expected to hear of its Surrender to the Moors, who were beſieging it.

Cadiz, March 20. The Weather being now ſettled fair, a great quantity of Merchandize is brought hither from Seville to be put aboard the new Flota: Many Merchants come likewiſe hither in order to embark for New Spain; 'tis not believ'd however that the Flota will be ready to ſail before the firſt of next Month. According to our laſt Advices from Vera Cruz and the Havana, great Stores of our Merchants Goods remain'd there unſold, becauſe of the great Number of French Bottoms that are continually bringing the like Merchandize from France: Mean while the Spaniſh Merchant complain aloud of it, and are very much vex'd to ſee that the French incroach daily more and more upon the Trade of the Spaniſh Nation. Theſe Advices farther add, that 'twas ſuſpected, that M. de Caſſe would on ſome frivolous Pretext or other, carry the Gallions that were expected from Mexico into France.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated April 17.

Genoa, March 28. The contrary Winds hinder the Tranſport-Ships that lie ready here from ſailing for Final. Yeſterday a Ship arriv'd here that came from Barcelona on the 18th Inſtant: The Maſter reports that on the 15th all the Troops march'd out of that Town for Cardona, near which Place the Confederate Army is to draw together. The French and Spaniards continue quiet in their Quarters.

Milan, March 30. They write from Final, that the Horſe that are deſign'd for Catalonia were arriv'd the 15th at Rocquetta on the River Bormia, where they are to ſtay till the Tranſport-Ships that are hir'd at Genoa, come to Vado. According to our Advice from Turin, General Staremberg was to ſet out from thence to Day in order to return hither: We hear the Imperial Troops are marching out of the Mantuan and the Cremoneze for Piemont.

Turin, March 28. By Order of our Duke a Camp is mark'd out between Alpignano and Rivoli on the Doria, where all the Troops of his Royal Highneſs are to Aſſemble on the the 15th of April, by which time the Emperour's Forces are likewiſe expected there. Tis ſaid that our Army will conſiſt of 28000 Foot and 10000 Horſe. There are various Opinions of

of what they are to undertake, but many believe they will endeavour to make themſelves Maſters of Dauphine, ſeeing without the Aſſiſtance of a Fleet, there cannot much be done againſt Provence. They write from Geneva, that the French have lately ſent two Regiments of Horſe into the Sevennes. The Imperial General Staremberg is ſtill here, and aſſiſts every Day at the great Council of War. The new Fortifications of Suſa are to be finiſh'd in 14 Days. Beſides the Cannon that were ſent thither ſome days ago, a great Convoy of all ſorts of Warlike Stores is getting ready to be ſent thither likewiſe this Week.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 17.

Milan, April 3. All the Revenues of thoſe who enjoy Benefices in this Dutchy, and reſide at Rome or elſewhere in the Eccleſiaſtical State, are Confiſcated by Order of King Charles III. By which Means the Royal Chamber will have a Fund towards the publick Expence, and to defray the Expence of the Reception of the Royal Bride. Here is a Report as if we ſhould attack Ferrara, and come to an open Rupture with the Court of Rome, but no great Credit is given to it. General Staremberg is expected back from Turin to Morrow: He has been with his Royal Highneſs to viſit Suſa, and other Poſts. 'Tis ſaid, the Upper and Lower Montferrat, which was promis'd to the Duke of Savoy, will ſoon be made over to him. Recruits arrive daily from Tirol, and 'tis computed that our Troops will amount to 25000 Men. Two Regiments of Foot are come out of the Mantuan, and two more are expected thence, all four of them being deſign'd for Germany: and eight others for Spain.
